

Online seminar series
“Let’s think about Japanese language teaching to children”
The first session

“Online Networking Event”

This year we are going to hold a series of online seminars on the theme, “Let’s think about Japanese language teaching to children”. This first session is an online networking event. If you are already teaching Japanese to children, what kind of activities do you do in your class? What do you keep in mind when you are teaching children? What would you like to talk about with other teachers? If you are willing to teach Japanese to children, what kind of lessons would you like to have? Let’s make a network in this session!
